1 What is happening now, at both airports and across the Kingdom

Riyadh's new airport opened with the flag, 120 arrivals in its first 90 minutes and 17 direct routes on day one. Jeddah's old airport closed its doors after 47 years, and the last flight out was a Saudia A320 to Cairo. Dammam's expansion is still under construction, but the new terminal's shell is visible from the highway.

2 Every airport, interruption, Civil Defense alert and all-clear, status bar and casualty report since 9:00 AM.

Saudi Arabia's airports have been operating under a mix of restrictions, delays, and full closures since Iran launched its first wave of missile and drone attacks on the Kingdom at 9:00 AM on March 1, 2026. The attacks, which Riyadh said targeted civilian infrastructure and military installations, prompted the General Authority of Civil Aviation to suspend commercial flights at multiple airports within hours. Some airports have since reopened, while others remain closed as of March 2. The following timeline tracks every interruption, Civil Defense alert and all-clear, status bar and casualty report since 9:00 AM.
